BASKET BALL.

The second game of Basket Ball for the season was played in the G. A. Gym last Friday evening, between the Gault's first and second teams. Those who may have had the feeling that the game would not be a game unless played with an outside team, were much mistaken, and those who were present by their absence don't know what they missed and we won't tell them.

G. A. certainly has some good basket ball players and we were really surprised to see how the second team went into the game and played it. Of course the first team didn't have their hands full but they had them quite as full as they did the week before when they met the Gault team.

Shouldn't played a faster and a stronger game last Friday night than they did the week before, one of the features of the latter night being their passing which was, in several instances, as good as we have ever seen in Bethel, and the second team, though not as strong as the first team, put up a very good game.

We would like very much to see a good coach brought to Bethel to prepare the boys for the games which they will play during the coming winter. To this end we are making editorial reference to the matter in this issue of the NEWS, and hope that any interest of will come to our assistance. The last of the game was as follows:

Gault's 1st. Gould's 2nd.
King 1 f. Herrick Brooks 1 f.
Ferguson 1 f. Chapman Brown 1 f.
Hanna 1 f. H. Coolidge 1 f.

ELMER H. YOUNG.

Nicely Located in His New Quarters.

Mr. Elmer H. Young, Bethel's popular and progressive business manufacturer and dealer has opened his new store and is very pleasantly located.

Mr. Young was burned out last winter and as people know, he was scarcely a day in getting temporarily located and open to business. He rented the Chapman store on Broad street, where his business has been conducted since then to the present time.

Later he purchased of the Yous the original partially destroyed building, rebuilt and remodelled it, enlarging the main building and raising the roof thus improving it very much for the accommodation of his business. To-day Mr. Young has a business shop second to none in the village of Maine and one of which he may well feel proud. The main store has been enlarged and has also the work room, a nice barbers room has been added in which can be found an assortment of barbers which would do credit to a much larger locality than Bethel, while the entire upper story is used for a store room. New equipment has been added and an entire new stock put in and with new store, new stock, new machinery and new fittings Mr. Young is in a position to serve his customers as never before, and we predict for him a continuation and improvement upon his successful business of the past, all of which he certainly deserves.

One almost peculiar thing in connection with the fire which partially destroyed Mr. Young's store and stock, was the fact that his artless gas plant which was considered raised, and allowed to freeze up after the fire for the winter, thawed out in the spring and was found to be practically in working order. The entire store, including the basement and upper story has been repaired and is lighted from his former artless gas plant.

Just step in and look Mr. Young's place over. He will be glad to see you and you should be happy to see him so well located in such an up-to-date new shop and store.

H. E. RANDALL.

Also Recently Located After Months of Inconvenience.

Mr. H. E. Randall who suffered considerable loss on account of the fire in the Cross Block last winter, but who has been conducting his business under all sorts of inconveniences since that time, is now in a position to congratulate himself that the darkness has given way to dawn and he is now located very much better than ever before.

In the remodeling of the store by Mr. Young, considerable more room has been given to Mr. Randall. The area of his place is now very nicely divided, thus enabling him to carry a larger stock than ever before. This area has been utilized and Mr. Randall is able to show to the public one of the best

RHEUMATISM Badly Cripples a Baldwinville Farmer

URIO-O QUICKLY CURED HIM

Treated Two Years With a High-Priced Physician With No Success.

Mr. Frank Howe, a prominent farmer in the town of Van Buren, says: "I visited the best physician in this country, who treated me for about two years for rheumatism. I spent in this time several hundred dollars and seemed to grow worse instead of better each day. Being on crutches and forced to drive to the train and hobbling to the doctor's office became very discouraging. I let alone the sleepless nights and fearful hours of pain. Being advised by a friend I purchased Smith's Urio-O prescription, took it home and used it that day as directed.

Those fearful searing pains left me, my blood seemed to let loose and flow freely. I felt different and knew the next morning I had found a cure, as I slept and rested well all that night, something I had not done before in two years. I used six bottles of Urio-O and have never felt a return of the disease, had as me for crutches or cane since the first day of treatment.

I have since recommended Urio-O to hundreds of friends and acquaintances and in every instance it gave remarkable relief. To every person who suffers from Rheumatism I say, take Urio-O at once and your suffering will soon end.

FRANK HOWE, Baldwinville, N. Y.

Anyone who doubts Mr. Howe's experience is invited to write him for further details.

The manufacturers have so much confidence in the remedy that they will gladly give a large 75 cent bottle of Urio-O free to all Rheumatism who have never used it and are looking for a permanent, lasting cure for this most distressing disease. Address for a free trial, Smith Drug Co., 214 Smith Bldg., Syracuse, N. Y.

THE SIMPLE THINGS.

Seemed that mother only cared. For the simple things of life; Seemed that mother never shared. In the turmoil and the strife. Simple things were her delight; Closer to her heart, I guess; Tears would fill her eyes at sight Of a little baby's dress.

Mother never cared for show. She was satisfied to dwell In her humble way, and know. Those she loved were doing well. Many keepakes mother kept; Always simple things she'd choose; Many times has mother wept. Of a little pair of shoes.

Little socks that once were worn. And a little bow of blue; There's a little nightgown, torn. Where a baby's foot went through. These are all the simple things She has treasured through the years; And each one a memory brings Of a baby's smiles and tears.

Only simple, simple things. Little booties, soiled, 'tis true; But to them she fondly clings. Seem that mothers always do. Closest to her heart they lie. Sacred treasures none may share; Only for a mother's eye— Clothes the baby used to wear.

Men have come and gone, and by. Monuments of shivered stone. Towering upward to the sky. What they were on earth is known. But a little baby leaves. Only little simple things; And to them a mother clings— Greater monuments than kings.

JUST HIS CASE.

A man who was famous for never paying his bills owed a considerable sum to his tailor. Reading bills had no effect upon the debtor, so the tailor decided to make a personal attempt to collect the amount. He called several times upon the delinquent, but was never able to catch him. Finally he succeeded, just as he was going out and accosted him with the modest inquiry:

"Will you pay me this bill, sir?"

The man looked at it for a moment, and then said, innocently:

"Did you ever owe anybody any thing?"

"No sir," replied the tailor.

"Then you can afford to wait," said the waggish debtor, and off he walked.

The tailor again made several attempts, and at last was successful in cornering the man a second time.

The debtor looked very solemn, and said: "Are you in debt to anyone?"

"Not to be caught this time," the tailor replied.

"Yes, sir; I am sorry I am."

"And why don't you pay?"

"Because I haven't got the money," said the tailor with a significant look.

"Then just pay my own account, my dear sir," replied the debtor. "I am glad that you can appreciate my position. Good-morning."

supports of the roost are set in little cans of oil, or water containing kerosene, as shown at A, the lice will be safe, and the lice can be kept in check by ordinary care, says Farm and Home. Low, level roosts with large, round or flat slats are best.

BEES AND GRAPES.

A mistaken idea that the little insect punctures the fruit.

An Illinois reader wants to know if there is any way to prevent the bees from sucking the juice out of grapes. It is commonly supposed that the bees break the skin of the fruit and then remove the juices of the pulp. This is a mistake. If there is no rupture of the skin of the fruit, the bees will not bother the grapes which are broken and which will, doubtless, spoil, they do no material harm to the fruit.

If the vineyard is a small one, one of the best remedies is to go through it and examine the bunches and remove all fruit on which the skin is broken. This fruit can be used in making butter, jelly and wines and at the same time the temptation is removed from the bees.

In some small vineyards the growers resort to what is called "bagging." This is done about the time the berries are the size of small peas. Two-pound paper bags are used, slipping the bunch into the bag, which is slit for an inch on opposite sides of the sack, near the top. Draw the top of the bag up to the lateral to which the bunch is attached so that it passes through the two slits made in the bag. Then bend the paper over on either side so no opening is left, and wrap a little fine wire around the lateral at either side of the sack. Leave this till the fruit ripens. This not only prevents bees and ants from getting to the fruit, but also protects it from birds.

Just what causes the fruit to crack open, is not quite plain to our station experimenters. The writer has noticed, however, that fruit grown on rich soils has a greater tendency to break open than that grown on poor soils. If the soil is very dark colored, the probabilities are that it contains a great deal of nitrogen, which may cause the fruit to crack in the way mentioned. Manure should not be applied to the vineyard, especially fresh manure, says Journal of Agriculture. If the soil is naturally rich, it should receive a liberal application of hard wood ashes to which has been added a little ground bone or pulverized rock phosphate. These materials should be worked into the surface layer of the soil a few feet surrounding the vine.

WOMEN AS POULTRY RAISERS.

Why They Are Specially Adapted to the Business.

Poultry raising is one kind of stock raising that is adapted especially to women. It is a business for more than a million in this department of the farm, and every expense of head force is rewarded by increased returns. The women on the farm have it in their power to make as great a success of poultry raising as these husbands make of the raising of horses, cattle, hogs or sheep. There are thousands of women engaged in the raising of poultry on a commercial scale and there are thousands of women on the farms that have brought the science of poultry raising to such a perfection that the business is every year paying them a large income.

The education of most women has been in the direction of cleanliness in the house and kitchen about the premises. This same kind of education is what is most needed in the poultry establishment, says the Farmer Review. It has often been said the lack of this that has caused losses in the poultry yards. The women on the farm have all the advantage of the women in the village in the way of poultry keeping, for they have the raw material for the feeding of the poultry, all of which the village poultry keeper has to buy.
